HOW TO WEAR KEY LOOKS NOW

Amanda Woodward-Brown, 33, fashion editor at NineintheMirror.com, on why she loves the new mid-length

"I like a clean silhouette offset with playful accessories – nothing too polished or serious. I wear mid-length pieces all the time – it's a timeless style and there are so many different ways to wear them. It's a length that suits everyone, but the key to making it work is finding shoes that make your legs look longer, so avoid ankle straps."

PLAYFUL SKIRT

"This skirt is an interesting take – it has that strict silhouette, but it's playful so doesn't require too much styling. It's a fun piece you can wear day or night, and the movement when you walk is beautiful. Navy and white means it's easy to pair with other colours."

DETAILED SHIRTDRESS

"I have so many shirtdresses in my wardrobe. They are a one-step style solution: you put one on and feel ultra-polished, no matter what sort of day you're having. This dress has interesting details – a D-ring belt, corset panelling and crossover straps on the sleeves – and will look great with almost any shoes."

PERFECT WORK DRESS

"I don't generally wear a lot of print, but I love the sharpness and streamlined silhouette of this dress, mixed with the fluidity of the fabric. It's the perfect work dress and a really interesting piece, thanks to the prints and detailing such as the tie side. Gold shoes and earrings dress it up, but you could easily wear it with white trainers for day."
