HOW TO WEAR THE KEY LOOKS NOW

Fashion PR Daisy Hoppen, 32, tackles summer silk

"I'd describe my style as low-key. There's definitely a comfort factor involved in how I dress. I love silk in the summer - there's nothing nicer against your skin. It's timeless and versatile, and it looks just as luxurious with heels as it does with flats and trainers. I also love the fact that in winter you can wear a big jumper with a pair of silk trousers."

GOING-OUT DRESS

"The shape of this dress feels quite Club Tropicana and glamorous. It's always hard to find the perfect summer occasion dress, but this is something you could wear to so many events. You could even just wear it with a pair of flats or slides and it would still look great. I'd throw a jumper over my shoulders or add a denim jacket to dress it down."

PYJAMA CO-ORD

"The pyjama trend is still going strong - it's so flattering and easy to wear. This navy and white set is really chic. The short sleeves make it perfect for summer, and the culotte-style trousers show just the right amount of ankle. Pair with sharp shoes, like these slides. In winter, I'd wear it with trainers, or a beautiful pair of heels, a navy Crombie coat and lovely jewellery for the office."

SLIP DRESS

"If, like me, you have a bigger bust, layering a tee under a simple silk slip dress is one way to feel more secure, and it looks quite 1990s. It's also a perfect way to take an outfit from day to night - you can take off the T-shirt for evening and add a pair of heels. It's super easy to wear, and to pack. The trick with silk is to roll, not fold. This would also be great for the beach to throw on over a swimsuit."
